

Independent advice that delivers results and saves you money

Weiser Consulting® is not in the business of presenting your organisation with flash new technology or the latest systems just because it's the 'next big thing'. Similarly, we won't help you implement a system unless we know that your business really needs it.

We are independent — we don't have a system to sell, or a platform to promote. We don't expect your business to change in order to fit the technology; instead we look for suppliers that can adapt to suit your needs. We don't get excited by the phrase 'new IT project', because, unlike others, we aren't just about the technology. We're about your business.

Weiser Consulting® brings together the most suitable technology, the strategic business case, and — most importantly — your people into change that really works. With over twenty years of experience working with a range of industries and organisations, including agriculture, retailing, banking, property, insurance and education — in both private and public sectors — Weiser Consulting® delivers to your business — no matter what size — expertise and efficiency.

Weiser Consulting® has the knowledge, expertise and experience to implement effective solutions for your business, delivering strategic IT and business planning advice that increases productivity, reduces cost and improves service quality.
